Subject: Minerals and Waste Local Plan Update

Dear Mr Day,

I understand that there is the possibility of permission for gravel extraction near Clanfield may be given.

I, probably in common with most Bampton residents object most strongly to this possibility.

Our village is already condemned to have over 300 new houses built here which is going to mean a lot of extra traffic in and through the village. If extraction of gravel were to be allowed near Clanfield it would seem inevitable that hundreds of extra lorries would come through this village which already has too much traffic. The extra houses will mean an increase of over a third in our population and therefore a huge increase in traffic. Gravel lorries would make things quite unbearable.

So please do all you can to get this idea shelved.

Lord Donoughmore
